Exhibitor Prospectus

The Society of Naval Architects and Marine Engineers (SNAME) is an internationally recognized society of individual members serving the maritime and offshore industries and their suppliers.

Entering its 129th year, the SNAME Maritime Convention remains the best place to connect with your prime buying audience - engineers, designers, shipbuilders, and operators. Powered by SNAME, this is the one industry event of the year that unites the entire maritime industry.

When you exhibit here, you'll connect with decision makers and specifiers actively assessing the latest technologies, services, and products for today's shipbuilding projects. There's no better place to network and build relationships directly with your target market - ensuring premium exposure and optimum ROI.
